A Realistic Path to Peace

From Genocide to Global War... and How We Can Stop It

“This book of excellent essays, many written in the heat of events and conveying their urgency, analyzes the current U.S. drive for war, against Russia and beyond, and the genocide in Gaza, in the longer historical perspective of the U.S. foreign policy as studied by its most important critics. Distilling long years in the peace movement, Knight exposes its roots and points to the only path to peace: opposition to the U.S. war machine.”

— Radhika Desai, Director, Geopolitical Economy Research Group; and Convenor, International Manifesto Group

“Dee Knight’s book, A Realistic Path to Peace, offers keen insights into the Biden administration’s reckless provocations towards Russia and China and morally bankrupt policy in the Middle East, contextualizing it amidst a larger history of U.S. imperialism and war mongering. Knight writes clearly and lucidly and shows the urgent need to revitalize the peace movement in the U.S. today.”

Advanced Praise for A Realistic Path to Peace

“With the escalating genocide in Palestine, New Cold War on China, and its proxy war against Russia, it’s difficult to shake the feeling that the U.S. ruling class has lost any semblance of sanity. Motivated by their mission of hegemony — of creating a ‘favorable business environment’ around the world — these people are pushing humanity towards World War 3. This volume by veteran campaigner Dee Knight provides a timely and much-needed voice of sanity; a passionate plea for peace, and a call for unity and bold action against imperialism. As Huey P. Newton warned us, ‘There can be no real freedom until the imperialist — world enemy number one — has been stripped of his power.’ Essential reading”

– Carlos Martinez, Co-founder, Friends of Socialist China.

“Drawing on his lifetime of experience at the front lines of resistance to empire, Dee Knight details a multitude of struggles against the empire, and for building a new, multipolar world in which no single nation dominates, and all nations can live and thrive together. He shows we are now at a tipping point, when the old world of war and exploitation is ending, and a new world is coming into being. Read his book and see the pieces of the new world coming together, piece by struggling piece.”

– Michael Wong National Vice President of Veterans for Peace;
Co-founder of Pivot To Peace.

Preface:

Danger... and Opportunity

The world is in a crisis now. As its empire declines toward collapse, the United States leadership is making a series of disastrous errors. The “neocons” in Washington, DC, are determined to maintain U.S. global domination regardless of what it might take. The stakes are high for them. They seem to believe that if they “allow” any other country to challenge their global leadership, their whole system could fall apart. They consider it crucial to control global trade, especially the trade in energy.

So they are prepared to do whatever it takes. Supporting genocide in Israel—by providing weapons, money, and a bizarre “moral justification” for horrific genocidal bombing—is a sign of what it takes. Blowing up the Nord Stream pipeline was another sign of what it can take. That was a desperate, “last-ditch” measure, after efforts to persuade their strongest European ally to cut off Russian energy supplies didn’t work. Europeans are now paying much higher prices for natural gas and oil than they did before. The result has been a drastic change in living standards for ordinary people in Europe, and major economic problems across the entire world.

Western European leaders have been rounded up and bludgeoned into a unified NATO alliance against Russia, and in support of Israeli genocide against Palestinians. This alliance—originally composed of “north Atlantic” countries under U.S. leadership at the end of World War II—is now also being extended to Asia.
